CIS CONSULTING GROUP ANNOUNCES EXCITING NEW TOPIC— TIE IT TOGETHER WITH TECHNOLOGY

Chris Wirtz
CIS Consulting Group
Construction Executive Conference Technology Sponsor

Chris Wirtz states; “You’ve gotten the ‘what,’ now get ready for the ‘how.’ I will explain how to put the best practices learned at the conference into practice with supported technology.”

The CIS Consulting Group’s “technical talk” has been a highlight of the Construction Executive Conference from the very first one. CIS Consulting Group has a strong reputation for putting great ideas and best practices into operation through computer hardware, software and consulting services. Through real life examples, skits and even once throwing a PC to make a point, they have kept us abreast of the latest applications of technology.

CIS Consulting Group provides accounting and operations solutions that revolve around software, implementation, integration and training. Their philosophy of a customer-centric, solution-based approach has gained them a high reputation among their clients and peers.

Chris Wirtz, of Charlotte, NC has focused his career on providing software solutions to contractors across the nation. He now works exclusively with contractors in the Carolinas. Chris has an MBA from Lynchburg College and is regularly published in national construction magazines. He is a frequent speaker on construction and real estate related topics to members of the industry.

He currently serves on the Charlotte Board of Directors for the American Subcontractors Association of the Carolinas. He is a member of ABC of the Carolinas, CFMA and several other trade organizations.

Remember there is only one Construction Executive Conference this year and only one chance to hear your favorite “technical talk.” Register now by following the link below!
